will attend the dinner given by Lord Rosebery. Lord Rosebery dined with the Queen last evening, slept at Windsor last night and had an audience with Her Majesty this morning. The Queen approved the list of birthday honors submitted to her by the Premier.

The news that Henry Irving had received the The news that Henry Irvines had order of knighthood aroused great interest among theatrical people in New-York last night. The sentiment generally expressed was that an honor had been conferred on dramatic art, and that it had been conferred on the English speaking. fallen on the one person in the English-speaking world most fitted to bear it as the representative world most fitted to bear it as the representative of the highest and best in dramatic art. Honors of this kind, which have been bestowed with much more freedom on painters, writers and musicians, have seldom been accorded to actors, and the present instance therefore involves an unusual recognition of the acted drama as the peer of its kindred arts. No actor is held in higher esteem by his fellow-actors than Henry Irving. His high abilities are not more admired on the stage than his personal qualities in private life. The congratulations which he will receive on his present advancement will be more general and more sincere than could have been bestowed on any other living actor.

THE AMEER'S SECOND SON IN ENGLAND. SIRDAR NASRULLA KHAN TRAVELLING IN ROYAL

London, May 24.-Nasrulla Khan, second son of the Ameer of Afghanistan, landed at Portsmouth this morning. The warships in the harbor were orated with flags, and fired salutes in his honor as he landed. The young man was received on shore by the Mayor of Portsmouth and the commanding officer of the Portsmouth garrison. Both of these the visitor witnessed a parade of the troops.

An immense crowd was in and about the railway station to welcome Nasrulla Khan upon his arrival in London. The station was decorated with flags and flowers, and the floor was carpeted in honor of the occasion. Nasrulia left the train as soon as it had stopped and proceeded to a carriage that was it walting. He was driven to the Dorchester House, escorted by a detachment of the Life Guards.

SESSION OF THE REICHSTAG ENDED. CHEERS FOR THE EMPEROR GIVEN AFTER THE

Berlin, May 24.-The ression of the Reichstag closed at 3.15 p. m. to-day, Chancellor Hohenlohe reading the Imperial message bringing the sittings to an end. The President, Baron Buol von Berenberg, called for three cheers for the Emperor, which was given, the Socialist members having previously left the Chamber.

This is an improvement upon the last demonstra-tion. In the Reichstag of the Socialists, who re-fused to stand up when "hochs" were given in nonor of the Kaiser and of Bismarck. This time they preferred to protest by leaving the hall of the Chamber. They had enough political sense to un-derstand that it was wiser not to tire public opinion have been useless and dangerous, after the two signal victories won by them. The first demonstration of the Socialists had led to the resignation of Mr. Levetzow, the Conservative President of the Reichstag, and to the refusal of the latter to indict Mr. Auer and his friends as guilty of less-majesty for having declined to join in the hurrans for the Emperor. Soon afterward the Socialists won another victory in the defeat of the Anti-Subversive bil, which was mainly directed against them. They feel that the best policy for them at present is to keep quiet, now that Germany is preparing for the feasts of the opening of the Balic Canal, in which nearly all naval powers of the world, France included, will participate, and which will so gratify the national pride of the Fatherland. Mere bartisan political affairs will lose all importance and nonody will care whether or not, as it is said by the "Cologne Garette," "the State's car is fast in the mud." Political discussions will be taken up again on the recal discussions will be taken up again on the reassembling of the Reichstag, which is not to be dissolved, as it was reported it would be in some dispatches. The Socialists by their quiet attitude at the closing of the session, and the Emperor by his not dissolving the Reichstag, have adopted the same policy, to leave partisan struggles aside on the eve of the great national fêtes of the opening of the Baltic Canal. have been useless and dangerous, after the two London, May 24.-Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian Commissioner, in an address before the So-for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge, today, advocated more liberal pecuniary contributions as essential to the success of the movement. He eferred is the work of the Emigration Committee referred to the work of the Emigration Committee of the society in sending chapiains to Canada, and otherwise continuing religious influence among the settlers in the Dominion and territories of Canada, and said that since the federation of the Dominion there had been expended over 120,000,000 in opening up the country, and another (1,000,000 in promoting emigration. The society's aid, he said, in fostering religious knowledge in the remote regions of the Dominion has met with due appreciation in Canada. The Archoishop of Canterbury presided at the meeting, and in addition to the remarks of Sir Charles Tupper, addresses were delivered by Lord Salisbury and the Bishops of London and Bath.

HERS OF COMMERCE. London, May 24.—Speaking to-night at a meeting of the Conservative Union, the Right Hon, A. J. Balfour, Conservative leader in the House of Commons, said that the burden of political action rested, not upon the House of Commons, where the Gov rnment was playing out a dull and pitiful comedy, but upon the electoral organizations outside the House. The time was near, he added, when an appeal to the country would be inevitable. He was not certain when the Government would abandon its have been run off in one day, generally entailing hopeless task of trying to legislate, but it would be some confusion and disorder. This year the meeting the business of the Opposition to make the date as is divided in two and the preliminary or first half soon as possible. (Cheers.) It might, however, outlive the session, but unless there was a great and unparalleled change in public opinion it could not long survive. In conclusion, Mr. Balfour urged the party organizations everywhere to be ready for neral election.

Charles T. Ritchie, Conservative, was elected yesterday to the Parliamentary seat for Croydon, made vacant by the succession of the former occupant, Sidney Herbert, Conservative, to the rank and title of Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery. Mr. Ritchie was not opposed. . A deputation representing the Chambers of Com merce of the United Kingdom waited upon Lord Rosebery at his official residence in Downing-st. this afternoon. The visit of the deputation was in reference to the approval on the part of the Cham-bers of Commerce of the resolutions passed by the Intercolonial Conference recently held at Ottawa favoring the establishing of interimperial postal and the colonies The deputation urged the Government to adopt the proposals of the conference Lord Rosebery and Lord Ripon were present, but Sir William Harcourt and Postmaster-General Morley were detained by business in the House of Com-

Sir Albert Rollit introduced the deputation, and stated the object of their visit, saying that the Chambers of Commerce unanimously favored the establishment of a subsidized mail service between England and Canada, which should be equal in every respect to the present subsidized service to the United States. Such a line, he said, would reimburse the outlay not only in a saving of time be tween the United Kingdom and Carada, but also in communication with Chicago, St. Louis and other trade centres in the interior of the United States.

As regards cable connection with the colonies Sir Albert thought, it would be necessary to construct duplicate lines, as in case of war and the breaking down of the present cables many parts of the empire could only be communicated with through the courtesy of foreign nations.

Lord Rosebery replied, saying that he was not able at the time to express the decision of the Government upon the subjects presented. He greatly regretted the absence of Sir William Harcourt, to whom he alluded as the "guardian of the country" Since they had received the report of the Earl of Jersey, England's delegate to the Ottawa Conference, the Government had appointed a de volved. This committee, he said, was still sitting ly shared by the whole Government, as was evidenced in the recent measures looking to the increase of the fleet. The Government, Lord Rosebery said, were considering the question in the concrete form, and he hoped that the deputation would soon re-ceive a satisfactory reply to their requests. He regretted that he could not go more fully into the questions, but he hoped that the deputation would be satisfied where he said that he and Lord Ripon heartily wished godspeed to the claims that had been addressed to them.
